About Only Passionate Curiosity

Hi, I'm Heather!

I am a homeschooling mother of three and blogger over at Only Passionate Curiosity. We are a military family stationed overseas, so much of our learning happens on the road as we explore Europe. On the blog, I try and share what real life homeschooling is like, all our triumphs and struggles. And, I love to save you a little bit of money along the way, with free curriculum, printables, and reviews to help you make the most of your homeschooling journey. I'd love if you'd stop by and visit!

Instructions

1. Memory Verse Poster: Hang the Memory Verse where children can read it independently throughout the week.
2. "What is Love" Words: The highlighted words on the Memory Verse Poster show the positive traits defined within the verse. Discuss with the children what each highlighted word or phrase means.
3. Pocket Chart Memory Verse: Use the large word strips to place the memory verse in a pocket chart.
4. Name the Missing Words: Heart Cards can be used to remove words from the verse (change which words you remove each day) and have children see if they can remember what words are missing.
5. Unscramble the Verse: The Pocket Chart Verse can be mixed up and used as a puzzle. Have children put the words in order.
6. Personal Verse Scramble: You can print the large Pocket Chart words two to a page, and have children use them as a personal floor puzzle, or glue the words on a poster board.
7. Copywork: Two versions have been provided, manuscript and cursive font. There are many different ways to write in cursive, so feel free to have your children change letter formation to fit your requirements as need be. On the copywork pages, encourage your children to illustrate the concept in action on the top part of the page. For example, on the page that says "Love is kind" they can draw a picture of themselves showing kindness to a friend.
8. Vocabulary Sheet: A vocabulary matching sheet includes some of the more challenging words in the verse and their definitions. Discuss each word with your child and see if you can come up with real world examples of these words with them. For example, can you think of a time when you boasted?
9. Write a Letter: Encourage your child to write a letter to someone they love. Remind them of proper letter writing- they should include the date, and indent the body of the letter.

What is Love?

Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.
